InC Research Seminars 2009

Proposal for 2009 – Fridays, 2-4 pm

Each subgroup (Assistive technologies, Interaction design, Digital communication and culture) is responsible for arranging two seminars. Below are some possible formats.

- PhD seminars in which one or more PhD students outline his or her research agenda, current challenges or problems. It could also be in the format of presenting a contribution to a journal or a conference. The seminar can be considered as inspiration for other researchers as well as supplementary supervision and constructive criticism for the PhD students.
- Resrach project seminars in which one or more project members present the current status or an interesting aspect of a specific research project. It could also be in the format of presenting a contribution to a journal or a conference. Finally it could be a proposal for a research project.
- Guest seminars in which external guests are invited to give a presentation. These could either be from industry or from other research environments. Hot shots or just interesting people.

For all seminars hold that they are open seminars and that external guests are. Final program, introductions and material are uploaded to the InC-blog a week in advance.

Preliminary time schedule and content

15/5:   Interaction Design I (Lone Malmborg)
        Lone and Tomas gives a status of activities in senior design as research area
        Tanja Belinda Andersen: Seniors and mobility: report from the 'tag-along'-study
        Elena Nazzi: Presentation of PhD project
        Naveen Bagalkot: Presentation of PhD project

26/6:   Assistive technologies I (Dan Witzner) (summer seminar)

21/8:   Digital media and communication I (Rich Ling)

25/9:   Interaction Design II (Tomas Sokoler)

23/10: Assistive technologies II (Simeon Keates)

20/11: Digital media and communication II (Lisbet Klastrup)

18/12: Surprise from outside – to be decided (Christmas seminar!)